

Social consciousness, basically is, how you impact on the people around you and how they impact on you.

Being fully aware of the people around you in society.

If you were to be in Samoa, and its first time normally its known to rude to show your legs or wear very short shorts. Its okay if it's your time, but you need be aware of that.

Being mindful of what you wear in certain places.

Being socially responsible.

Have a awareness of what you say to other people and their cultures.

Being aware of other people's cultural and traditional clothing. For example you went to Afghanistan and wore something that's not familiar for Muslims.

Social Consciousness

Basically, It means means being aware of people around you in the world and society.

To be socially conscious means being deeply aware of the people around you in society how you impact them and how they impact you. -Toa

Clothes are like an expression which tells you what you are and the choices you make.

What this means is that you should respectful of other peoples cultures and religoins, this is because if you say something negitive then it means, you are being Racist.

Social consciousness complies with fashion because you know what you're wearing and why you have to wear it. Like specific countries have to wear specific clothes.

you know why you wear it and your are aware of what you are wearing

When you go to different countries you should be respectful of their culture and what they wear because if you DON'T you will be showing culture appropriation.

Sustainability means to promote the well being of people, communities and the environment

Its basically like reuse, reduce and recycling the materials that you have, and that are around.

the way people use sustainability is that they use the recourses to make clothes around them to make stuff. Like to make fashionable wear.

Sustainability is a important thing for not only the environment but for other people who don't have much recourses or materials to make clothes for them to wear.

Sustainabilly is a way manufacturing companies try to "sustain" the environment by reducing things like plastic and making the clothes into things like recycled clothing

When I mean recycled clothing I mean making clothes with 35% bottles used in the fabric, or using natual cotton.

Their fashion may depend on the resources they have available to make clothes as some people are not as fortunate as others

Sustainability

Sustainable marketing can relate to what the environment revolves around.

In fashion, when it comes to sustainability, basically the fashion designers would you any reusable or recycled objects to make a fashionable wear.

Which is telling us that we don't need to use animal skins or any-other kind that would hurt our environment instead we can use reusable objects, to help keep our world healthy.

Plastic should not be merged in with shirts and pants because it can eat away at the world and kill some of our animals.

Meaning: Cultural appropriation basically means the acknowledged or inappropriate of the customs, for example when sports teams using native american tribal names or imgs

Having a feeling for cultural fashion

Cultural Appropriation on is appreciating another culture in an effort it means trying to wear appropriate so that it doesn't disrespect any other cultures.

Culture Appropriation is using different countries images or names.

If you are a fashion designer, especially if they live in a country that has specific things pertaining to clothing.

Clothes that especially one country wears and may be a tradition to their culture.

Having a piece of cultural art that someone else has created. In due of respect to the culture a example of Culture Appropriation is braids that are worn as a way for African women to re-claim a cultural symbol that was banned or frowned upon for decades.

Cultural Appropriation

Cultural appropriation is also like wearing somebody elses cultural fashion because they like how it looks, or thinks it just fashion.

we also think that cultural appropriation is like wearing something or somebody's culture because they think it's "Trendy" or "cute" but it's actually someones culture their wearing.

So what I have been reading on this slide is that for example, when you wear like a mexican stereotypical clothing FOR FUN. Which is not good.

Fashion culture is mostly known as traditional fashion, where one person gets inspiration from one's heritage and makes it into something beautiful.

fashion Culture isn't just what cultures wear but it is about what is popular on different platforms.

Fashion Culture is basically talking about what is going viral in the media and the social industry.

Fashion culture can take many forms

Fashion has changed in many different ways, forms, and styles like for example how in the 2000s people would wear like flare jeans, JNCO jeans, etc.

The clothes we wear tell stories of our culture and heritage

Pop culture in the early 2000's was very popular examples like baggy jeans, low rise jeans, layered tops and cargo pants many people wore outfits like some people still do today

Cultural Fashion can not only be traditional to your country can be any country
